Re: COVID19 Update

October 6, 2020

The County of Colusa is on track to move to a less restrictive “red” tier on October 13, 2020 under new evaluation criteria announced by the State this afternoon. In order to move to the next tier the County must continue to maintain less than 35 COVID19 positive cases per week for the next two weeks. Currently the County has zero new active cases. If the County sustains to move into the red tier, certain County businesses may reopen with modifications and limited capacities including restaurants, gyms and schools. Since we are so close, the County continues to encourage the public to remain following local, state and federal masking orders along with doing what we all need to do to stop the spread.
